HONGKONG, JANUARY 11TH, 1387.

WE are glad to be able to congratulate the Hon. C. P. CHATER alike upon the subject of his maiden speech in the Legislative Council and the manner of its delivery. Mr. CHATER is thoroughly practical and he is in downright carnest in, all matters affecting the interests of the Colony. His remarks on the subject of the defences of Hongkong were therefore, as might have been expected, clear and to the point. He wants to see the island placed in a completely effective state of defence, and is not disposed to think too much of the cost. He regards it in the light sense point of view, and rightly considers that the Conference to be held in April will afford a good opportunity for making the

of insurance, a commercial and commonclaims of the Colony to protection properly known. The reply elicited from the ACTING GOVERNOR by Mr. CHATER was in some respects very satisfactory. No better mon than Messrs. Krswick and Jackson could be nominated to represent the Colony at the forthcoming Conference. Both of thom are most thoroughly conversant with the condition a personal inspection of the fortifications before he left, and who takes a great in the Corps d'Armée; and I have always done so lieve, take part in the Conference. It might of one of the two gentlemen above named being appointed, to send to them any sug- intimate friends. gestions that the Council or the community can make to increase the efficiency of the scheme of fortifications now being carried out before the Conference meets, in order that, if opportunity arose, they might bring auch suggestions before it.

recommendations made by His Excellency as to the appointment of a representative of Hongkong at the Imperial Defence Conference, has he not rather misapprehended the intention of the Secretary of State with regard to the composition of the local Defence Committee? Whether this be the case or not, we cannot see what is to be gained by the appointment of a Committee composed of the officials Mr. MARSH has named. The Major-General in Command of the Forces is, in any case, responsible for the defence of the Colony, and the Colonels of Engineers and Artillery are his subordinates, whose advice he may accept or reject as he pleases. The Commodore is equally responsible for the co-operation of | Consul in Smyrns is spoken of. The instructor the Naval Forces, and there remains only in Chinese is Herr C. Arendt, who for many the Captain Superintendent of Police outside the regular Forces. Now all these officers naturally at present constitute a standing Committee of defence, and we fail to see that there would be any necessity for formally appointing them. What Mr. STAR-HOPE contemplated was, we imagine, the appointment of a local Committee to cooperate with the regular Naval and Military Authorities. The Commandant of the Volunteers, the Harbour Master, the Marine Surveyor, and two or three of the residents who are either possessed of means of transport auch as steamers or steam launchée, or wield great influence among the active members of the community and could induce them to take part in measures for self-protection, would be able in some measure to supplement the re- Banquetting Hall, and partock of the annual sources at the command of General Cameron. The Superintendent of Police will always have and those of his force on the work of keeping in check the lawless portion of the population. To do this effectually he ought to be left with a perfectly free hand, and the Police should never be reckoned as part of the disposable Forces for defence against invasion. Were there any report of an impending attack upon the place, it is probable the signal among the criminal classes here and on the adjoining mainland for an attempt to loot the city, and a most watchful eye would need to be kept upon them and every precaution taken to prevent a rising. on the part of the Government. Some time ago they advertised for tenders for the supply of 350 revolvers for the Police Force, and a Committee was appointed to consider the offers. On Saturday last the Committee held a meeting in which out of a large number of good and bad English, French, American, and German patterns submitted by European and Chinese deale s, they selected the worst of the lot, which was offered at the low price of $2.75 apiece. This action of the Committee has taken everybody by surprise. I wonder what confidence can the men of the Force have in such inferior weapons; and what protection can the community expect from men thus armed? It is the universal opinion that the Government have thrown away over $1,000 for nothing. Naturally the members of the Force are much annoyed that the Committee should have made such a selection, and it is said that many of them prefer their old English revolvers brought out from London some time in 1880, for which the Government paid $11 each, which although old are yet good pistols. EXECUTIONS AT PEKING.

The 11th December, says the Sheh Pao, was the execution day at the Capital, and there were thirty-one prisoners, among whom were several be able to obtain a reward for proficiency in a men of rank, who were under sentence of death second dialect till he has obtained one for his by decapitation or strangling, under the direction of the Board of Punishment. On the day previous all the necessary preparations were made, and the convicts were treated to a bountiful repast of wine and victuals, according to an ancient austom with prisoners just before their execution. Early the next morning the condemned were taken out of their cells and placed between two bodies of soldiers, and, having been securely bound and manacled, were placed in carts and at once conveyed to the execution ground outside of the Hauan Wu Gate, where a mut shed had been erected for the accommodation of the tending the execution. These officials took their seats and awaited the arrival of the Imperial Decrea granting or withholding pardon to the hapless victims who were so soon to forfeit their lives to atone for their crimes. Detachments of soldiers in charge of the local officials were stationed along the walls to maintain order. At a little after noon the Imperial Order was recoived consigning three of the calprits to death by decapitation and sixteen of them by strangulation, and to the remaining twelve, four of whom were men holding official positions. His Majesty granted a reprieve and they were accordingly taken back to their cells in the charge of the Board of Punishment. It was about 40'clock in the afternoon when the executions were ended. It is said that a man, related to the Imperial family, b the name of Tsai-san, who was under sentence of death by strangulation and was to be executed on the same day with the other prisoners, escaped by climbing over the wall on the night previous to the execution; and although strict search was made he has not yet been re-arrested. Three yearsago this man kept agambling establishment outside of the Tung An Gate; and having on one occasion caused the death of a man by means of red-hot irons, one of the Censors by the nam of Liu memorialized the Throne; and the ${f matter}$ having been investigated by Imperial ${f D}e$ cree, and on his guilt being clearly established, he was sentenced to death by strangulation. Among the number who were pardoned by His Majest was Chang Ch'eng, Admiral of the Chinese flee at Foodbow at the time of the slaughter by th French last year. This unfortunate man had ben immured in a dungeon ever since he was taken to Peking, and his life had been given up as lost by all his friends and relatives. It however, if rumour is correct, to the efforts of Vicercy Li Hung-chang, who interceded in hi schalf with the Seventh Prince, when H Highness visited Tientsin, that he owes his life

On that occasion the Viceroy represented to His Imperial Highness that, incomuch as China has at present urgent need of mine who were qualified in naval and military warfare, it would be a wise policy on the part of the Government to save such men as Chang Chiong and the others who were then awaiting santence of death at the Capital. There is no doubt that this timely interposition from the Vicercy had muc to do with the saving of those four men, all of whom received pardon from His Gracious Majesty as mentioned above.

BEGGARS IN PERING.

A Peking correspondent in the Chinese Time: ays:—I have been so often struck with th cheerful liberality of the Chinese that I am always against them as if it were beyond dispute. It is a noor sort of charity after all that is doled on by an institution unless it bas government one and whatever may be said against almsgiving as we shall soon have a crisis, as trade generally is far as the receiver is concerned, it is a blessing to the giver. The claims of charity upon us i China are few compared with those at home, and, if we do not want the springs of mercy within us to be choked up entirely it might be as well to give them a little vent, occasionally by putting our hands in our pockets. No doubt there are many beggars idle who might work and cease to beg, and often one turns angrily away from Apiece of misdirected economy has been enacted a sturdy fellow who might be wheeling a barrow; but I think it will be found, by a little examination and questioning, that most every beggar you meet in China is eithe physically or mentally incapable of work And the Chinese recognise this, and, for my part, I am always glad to see our beggars with heir baskets well filled. There is one fran. well known in Peking, who must to waxing rich. He is quite blind, and is guided by hi aged mother who is strapped on to his back, a spectacle of filial piety which seldom fails to move the compassion of the passers by. Then there is a tiny little fellow from Shantung, who perhaps, rouses more cariosity than pity, seems so contented Poor little fellow, he was born without arms at all, but he gets his bowl in one foot, and his chopsticks in the other, and shovels his rice into his mouth as deftly as his brother who has the regulation number of limbs. It is a sight to see him eating ground-nuts, taking up each nut between two toes, cracking i open, and lifting the kernel to his mouth with the disengaged foot; and if you throw him a coin he picks it up with the greatest nonchalance and drops it into a pocket in the breast of his "continuations" (his clothes are all of a piece). The beggar may well say that the Empero has justified his claim to be called the Father c with an inscription by the Yamen issuing them stamped on the back and front to ensure its were opened in different parts of the city, an assemble for a bowl of soup, which, if not very sustaining, is at least filling. MARINE SURVEY FEES IN HONGKONG.

A brief but interesting discussion took place in the Legislative Council on Friday on the subject of marine survey fees. / short Ordinance has been introduced which I provides that in addition to the fees specified L in the Merchant Shipping Ordinance of 1879, L fees shall also be payable for other services | 1 which the Marine Surveyor may be asked to $[\tilde{N}]$ render. P Rygre objects to this fee as time, and Mr. Eagles relieved Dr. Thompson at being far too high. The Hon. H. G. THOM-BETT, Harbour Master, considers it very reasonable. Before considering the question of whether the fee is high or low an important point arises as to its character, whether it is compulsory or whether it is only a fee payable for services asked for. Mr. Rypin says it is a heavy tax on shiping the fees payable under that measure, the

That it is desirable the played during the milernoon. services of the Government Marine Surveyor should bemade available in the way proposed will not be disputed. The question, therefore, is simply as to what those services are worth. The Government ought not to fix the fees at an exorbitant rate, neither ought the shipowner to expect to obtain services for his private benefit at the public expense. It would, be just as reasonable that the public should pay the carpenter as that it should pay the surveyor. Anything in the nature of a tax on shipbuilding could not be tolerated for a moment, but the fees in question are not a tax, they are simply a charge to be nade for certain services when those services are rendered. But to fix some arbitrary Sarage gure and say that if a man can afford Graham...... 30 to build a ship of 2,000 tons he can ifford to pay $600, as Captain Thomsert aid, is as absurd as it would be to say hat if a gentleman can afford to build himelf a house at the Peak he can afford to pay 3600 a year in taxes. Association Game. The second game of the season of the Hongkong Football Club was played on the Race Course ground on the 4th instant under Association rules. Sides were picked up from those on the ground by Lieut. Lawrie and Mr. Wallace, and there was a capital, evenly contested game. From the first Lawrie's side pressed their opponents hard, keeping the ball, with the exception of one or two good rushes, in their territory. For a long time, however, there was no scoring made though there were |-several-corner-kicks-for-Lawrie's-side.__ At length, however, Wallace's goal man, who had had little or no experience of the Association game, incautiously left his post to kick the ball back from the left side. AUDACIOUS HIGHWAY ROBBERY IN HONGKONG.

A most daring robbery was committed in salaries and charges for professional services | Hongkong on the afternoon of the 5th inst. by home. The question therefore narrows itself | Ross-Lewin, Chaplain of H.M.S. Audacious. The rev. gentleman was walking along the Bonhamroad, a by no means lonely thoroughfare, shortly after two p.m., when he was assaulted and robbed 312. The Cauton correspondent of the $N.\ C.\ Daily$ News, writing on the 24th ult., savs :- "I beliove the French Minister has presented a sort of ultimatum at Peking with a view of exacting an indemnity from the Chinese Government for the late outrages perpetrated on various members of the French Boundary Commission. French, I repeat, committed a great mistake in not exacting compensation for the outrages in Yunnan, and they will do well to enforce complete satisfaction for the destruction of mission property in this province, as well as in Szechnen. THE GOLD MINES IN SHANTUNG

Says the Chinese Times:-The gold mines in Shantung, which promised so well last spring. were kept back for some time by the difficulty of transporting machinery from the sea-port, owing to the absence of roads. This has now, we understand, been overcome. But there are other obstructions to successful working, which are not got over. The Tao-t'ai Li himself has not been near the place for six months, and has, we hear, been transferred to some other post. The officials who direct the operations follow the timehonoured practices which have ruined so many other enterprises, and the prospect of obtaining a supply of gold from Shantung seems remote. It is to be hoped better success will attend the mining experiments which seem likely to be resumed in the North. The copper and other my watch chain, which broke away leaving the thus given to scientific mining may shortly preduce some tangible results.

THE WENCHOW RIOT.
